Next morning she never refers to the subject, but pleasantly inquires how he slept, and it his mind is clear. His boots may be missing, and he yells out: "Whar'n thunder's my boots?" "Right here, my dear!" she replies, and she hands them out, all nicely blacked up.

If she wants a dress, or a hat, or a cloak, and he yells out that household expenses are eating him up, she never "sasses" him back, not tells him that she "sasses" him back, not tells him that she

"sasses" him back, nor tells him that she could have married a Congressman, nor declares that she will write to her mother and tell her just how it is.

"That's so, my dear—times are hard," she says, and she gets up just as good a dinner as if he had left her fifty dollars. He may come home tight at supper time, but she is not shocked. She remarks that it is an unexpected pleasure to have him home so early, and she pretends not to notice his stupid look. He sees three chairs where there is but one. sees three chairs where there is but one, and in trying to sit down, he strikes the floor like the fall of a derrick.

"Whatzer jaw zhat chair 'way for?" he yells, and she replies:
"It's that hole in the carpet—I knew you would stumble !'t and she helps him up and brings him a strong cup of tea.

He's sick, sometimes, and I've known that woman to coax him for two straight hours to take the doctor's medicine, turn over his pillow twenty two times, keep a wet cloth on his head, pare his corn down, and then wish that she had a quait to make some soup. When he gets into a fight down town and comes home with his ears bitten up and his nose pointed to New Fives. happened to run away with him, and she says that she is so thankful that he wasn't killed. She has an excuse for anything, and she never admits that any one but herself is to blame about anything. Lorbless her—I hope she'll slip into Heaven and never be asked a question.

The Effect of Publishing Sermons

services. We are not now considering the question whether or not the publication does good. We only assert that it the seclusion, the semi-privacy that once attended them. The truth of this assertion will be admitted by any reader of the middle age who bethinks himself how startled, not to say shocked, he would have been in early youth at seeing what he had heard from the pulpit on Sunday printed in the same column with police intelligence in Monday's paper. If there seems to the church goer nothing of irreverence or incongruity

At one time, stocks sold at 70½ seller 60, when the price in a regular way was 78½. All sature, deling from debility, all programs' resulting from debility and line regular, with sales at ternal fever, congestion, inflammation and very many other and the reation and very many other to women, not 70½, the remainder of the list declined from 6½ to 6½. At the flual close Western Union rallied ‡ per cent, but the rest of the market showed very little improved. robs religious observances of the reserve, with police intelligence in Monday's paper. If there seems to the church goer nothing of irreverence or incongruity in sandwiching solemn or tender words, or mysteries which he regards as protound and awful, between a political harangue and the records of a divorce court, then it seems to us that he has lost something of the devoutness of his father and care. seems to us that he has lost something of the devoutness of his father and grand-tather. When the modern practice embraces more than this, as it often does; when prayers, as well as sermons, are reported; when the musical part of the services is reviewed and criticised as freely the stock on sellers option continued. as a concert performance; when the sacred as a concert performance; when the sacred ceremonial is described in the same style as an ordinary exhibition—the incongruity and irreverence ought to be still more apparent to a devout worabiper. The effect of the practice is felt not only by the readers of the reports, but by those who take part in the church exercises. The choir no longer sings for the congressition alone. longer sings for the congregation alone, but for the critic and the larger newspaper audience. The preacher suits his discourses to the newspaper level. Even the congregation of a popular church sometimes comes to think of itself as an exhibition. Another change is that which exhibition. Another change is that which often marks Sunday sermons. They have become not only less doctrinal, but less theological. Subjects of social and political morality largely take the place of strictly religious amblects. The sermon, in such cases, is transformed into a lecture, and pulpit oratory indistinguishable from oratory of the platform.

BRAUTIFUL WOMEN .- The hair is the crown ny glory of woman. There are few moderate sefects which cannot be remedied by the prope disposition of the treases. But when the hal egins to fall out, or turn gray, in young people or with those in the prime of life, there is cause for real regret. When this is the case, Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Remember will be found to be a first-class remedy, far superior, as a sound medical medium, to anything else before the public. It actually restores gray hair to its riginal color, and in the great majority of cas suses it to grow again when it is becoming thin It is not like many popular preparations, a mer-wa-h, but a scientific discovery, indersed and

URINARY ORGANS.

The urinary apparatus consists of the kidneys which serrete the urine, the ureters walch convey it to the bladder, the bladder which contains it and the urebas through which it is carried from the body.

When any substance enters the circulation and is not required for the nutrition of the body nor forms as element of healthy slood, it thould be removed from the system by these organs. Our bodies are always in a state of transition. Old matter is continually abrorbed and thrown off and now particles taken from the blood to replace it. Hence, no disease of these important excretory outlets of inhe body can long exist without seriously affecting the general health. The principal constituent of the orine is highly poisonous, and if retained in the bood even in small quantity, gives rise to disturbance of the stomach, brain and nervous system, while in large quantity if produces super, come, cravisions and death. An entire arrest of the urinary secretion for twenty-tour hours would prove faial.
